List of Journals Indexed in AGRICOLA 1989

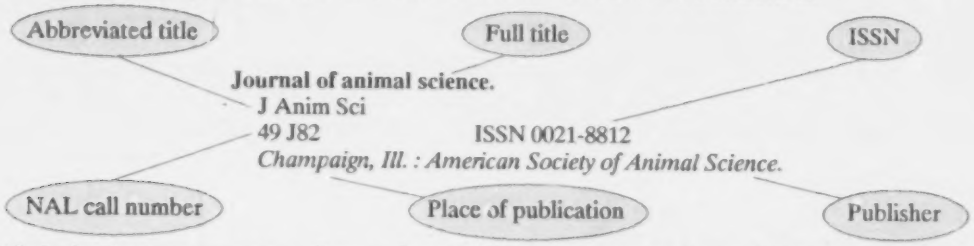
Introduction

The Indexing Branch of the National Agricultural Library and its cooperators currently index 2,120 journals for AGRICOLA (AGRICultural OnLine Access), the library's bibliographic database. AGRICOLA contains records for agricultural literature citations of journal articles, monographs, theses, patents, software, audiovisual materials, and technical reports. Indexing records comprise approximately 85 percent of the AGRICOLA database, the remaining 15 percent being cataloging records. Journals are selected for indexing from the library's extensive holdings by the Journal Evaluation Panel (JEP). The JEP consists of experienced indexers with various subject matter backgrounds who examine and evaluate new journals for conformity to scope and other criteria. The JEP periodically reviews the journals on this list to ensure that they continue to meet the selection criteria. Emphasis is placed on the indexing of journals published in the United States. Many foreign journals previously indexed are no longer indexed because of cooperation with the International Information System for the Agricultural Sciences and Technology (AGRIS). Inclusion of a journal for indexing does not necessarily mean that all articles in each issue will be indexed.



Alphabetic Arrangement: Journals are listed alphabetically by full title. All words, including articles, prepositions, and conjunctions are included for alphabetical purposes with the exception of initial articles which are ignored for alphabetizing, but are included for accuracy. Thus, The Canadian Entomologist will be found under "C." Diacritics are excluded; however, the letter "e" is inserted after the vowel in German words to represent the umlaut.

Abbreviated Title: Abbreviated titles on this list were formulated according to the rules and abbreviations contained in the Word-Abbreviation List published by National Clearinghouse for Periodical Title Word Abbreviations, 1971 edition.

NAL Call Number: The NAL call number identifies the location of the journal in the library and should be included when requesting publications from NAL.

International Standard Serial Number: The International Standard Serial Number (ISSN), a unique identifier for serial titles, is included when available.

This list represents titles indexed for AGRICOLA as of January 1989. The Indexing Branch will update the List of Journals Indexed for AGRICOLA annually to reflect additions, deletions, and changes. Recommendations of new titles for indexing will be considered. Comments about this publication are appreciated and should be directed to:
